Let's Talk About It

Ash Wednesday the First Day of Lent

By Yvette Tello

Ash Wednesday is a holy day of prayer and fasting that marks the first day of Lent, which is the six weeks of penitence before Easter. The holiday is also observed by Catholics, Anglicans, Lutherans, Methodists, Moravians, Nazarenes, and more. The primary objective of Ash Wednesday is to pay homage to Christ's 40-day fast and practice of self-discipline in the desert before beginning his ministry. NOT all Christians observe Ash Wednesday or the 40-day fasting that culminates into Easter. Jesus said when you are fasting, it should not be made known to people and so, most Christians believe that fasting should not be limited to the Lenten period alone. In Catholicism, on Ash Wednesday, Good Friday, and all Fridays of Lent: Everyone of age 14 and up must abstain from consuming meat. On Ash Wednesday and Good Friday: Everyone of age 18 to 59 must fast, unless exempt due to usually a medical reason. Is Ash Wednesday a day you recognize? Do you fast or give up anything during lent? Let's talk about it...

Bryan Ramirez: "Let one hand not know what the other is doing."

Melody Mike: "To be like Christ or of Him is hard. Fasting at this time isn't the same. One gets weak and in today's "go-go" societal demands, it's a hard thing to do. The church emphasized this during this period so the church, as a body and a body of Christ, could emulate and praise Him. This is a church implementation, not a Christ one. So, although I agree with the church's strategy, to fast should be based on one's time to do so safely. To recognize the sacrifice the Son of God made for us, is something we, as believers, should all do at once in our ways"

Carmen Madariaga: "Yes! Fasting! Fasting is a beautiful discipline which teaches self control and humility. It renders grace, and is actually good for the body. It is a HOLY tradition to make time for contemplation upon our LORD'S IMMENSE LOVE for mankind, so Profound ALL MIGHTY GOD HIMSELF paid the penalty of sin, for all who will believe and receive LORD JESUS CHRIST UNFANTONABLE SUFFERING endured willingly to SAVE US from hell and eternal damnation. PRAISE AND GLORY AND ETERNAL GRATITUDE unto THEE MESSIAH YESHUA LORD JESUS CHRIST."

Felipe Hinojosa: "Yes, my family and I recognize and honor Ash Wednesday, and the entire lent season inclusive of Holy Week. Prayer, Fasting, and Almsgiving—as the three things we need to work on during the season. It is most definitely not a thing of the past. Let's not become a thing of the past by believing that Lent is a thing of the past. Don't forget where you came from."

Mary Svetlik Watkins: "We observed as a family. We also make this a period of giving out. We give out not up. Often, when I give up, I complain and adopt a martyr attitude. Jesus died and was born again for us.. Giving out allows us to exemplify our beliefs and be a blessing. My family won't brag about our deeds because no one needs to know but God. Plus my goal is to pray the rosary everyday. I want to deepen my faith journey."

Ramon Chapa Jr.: "The fasting during lent is not in the bible. It's a religious thing. But yes Jesus did teach us to fast because sometimes prayer alone does not work. So Jesus said only by fasting and prayer will a strong form of darkness be removed. But nothing is mentioned during lent. So this Friday, I will have a big old steak! In Jesus Name!"

Leland Todd: "Fasting is in the Bible. Lent is not. Didn't even start until the 4th century AD. Just another man made tradition. If someone wants to fast for 40 days like Jesus did I support it."

Lisa Denise Traspeña-Schexnayder: "Not sure what bibles you are all reading but yes it does say that Jesus fasted for 40 days. And yes we should do as Christ did."

Julie Lopez Kos: "Sometimes I breakout with certain fish... So I just eat something simple. I didn't develop these allergic reactions until I was older... I'm happy eating a veggie plate or salad .... Now I did speak to a priest and since I had proof in hand etc. He said I could eat what I needed to because it was a medical condition.."

Jeff Hull: "I don't participate in Lent. As human beings we are imperfect. It seems hypocritical to walk around with ashes on the forehead and give up red meat only to continue the same behaviors afterwards. It seems an insult to Christ considering all he went through. I practice what Christ taught before people put him to death. Which is treating others as I would have them treat me but I do it daily and as often as I can. Not just one day a year."

Dc Ahmed: "To each his own.... Thank God we have a choice."

Alyssa Araujo: "I will give up Candy!"

Anthony L. Green: "I will give up Procrastination LOL."

Sarita Teenit: "It feels very performative. Your relationship with God is personal and doesn't require advertising."

Stacey Mahan McCrary: "Enjoy your faith but stop pushing your faith onto others who may already have a faith!"

Sághiñi Dervis: "A season of prayer, fasting and asking for forgiveness."

Barbara Kerr: "I am giving up cola. It's my go to caffeinated beverage since I'm not a big fan of coffee."

Ann Elizabeth Compton: "Several of my non-Catholic friends have embraced Lent throughout the years, too. I am also trying to reduce screen time-but we see how that is working so far!"

Georgina Segaric Brizuela: "I retired as the Volunteer Liaison at The Hebrew Home for the Aged at Riverdale/ River-Spring and as a Catholic and I had the honor of being the Volunteer Liaison in this wonderful Jewish facility. If there is one thing I learned from my Jewish brothers and sisters is...."Mitzvah"...doing always something good for someone. I love the word and I love the action. Instead of giving up something I will try to do more for someone this Lent...even if it just giving them encouragement...a smile...helping in one way or another. "Doing a mitzvah" is the most beautiful thing we can do. After all...Jesus did many mitzvahs for others... by showing love..compassion and tolerance for all without exclusion."

Brandy Marie Cardenas: "Giving up my diet coke."

Phillip Alexander Alfaro: "Maybe Facebook."

About The Cover Artist

The San Anto Cultural Arts Story

By Dr. Ricardo Romo

The San Anto Cultural Arts program has been painting community murals, sponsoring art classes for young students, and publishing an arts newspaper for the past thirty years. Executive Director Ben Tremillo and his small staff of six are driven by “this need for community members to have a voice and agency in what their neighborhoods look like.”

The non-profit organization San Anto Cultural Arts was founded in 1993 by Manny Castillo, Juan Ramos, and Cruz Ortiz. By his early 30s, Castillo had established himself as one of the leading Chicano art promoters in San Antonio, determined to follow and expand the muralist traditions initiated by Anastacio Torres and Juan Hernandez at the Cassiano Homes over the decade of the 1980s.

Castillo led the organization as its first Executive Director from 1993 until 2009 when he died of cancer at the age of 40. Austin Current writer Margaret Moser considered Castillo one of the leading “Keepers of the Flame.” She wrote a touching tribute to Castillo’s legacy in a January 2009 article. Moser followed the Austin music scene where Castillo often appeared with bands, such as Snowbyrd, and commented on Castillo’s talents as a musician. More importantly, Moser recognized Castillo as a tireless leader of the San Anto Cultural Arts, which had “tied together the Alamo City’s cultural and ethnic legacies in 30 murals.”

To date, the San Anto Cultural Arts organization has completed more than 60 murals, the majority in the Westside, and taught hundreds of young students about the arts. The students range in age from five to fifteen. San Anto’s busiest time is the summer months when 30 students attend all-day art classes.

The San Anto Cultural Arts are one of the city’s bright stars focused on community art. While best known for their colorful murals, they fulfill other important community needs in their educational outreach and weekly newsprint editions concerning history, culture, and the arts. Today, The San Anto Cultural Arts remains true to its vision of building a “community where people have the opportunity to realize their creative abilities, interpret their culture and heritage through their own unique vision, and to cultivate and showcase the talents of residents living in San Antonio’s Westside.”

Jesse Treviño: Latino Artist with a Vision and Remarkable Persistence

By Ricardo Romo, Ph.D

On February 13th of this year, San Antonio lost Jesse Treviño, one of America's premier Latino artists. He was 76 years old. Treviño had been ill for the past year following a surgery for cancer. Treviño endured nearly a dozen serious and painful surgeries since being wounded in Vietnam in 1967. Many of his cancer issues were related to serving in a region where Americans used burn pits, as well as napalm and other dangerous biological chemicals against the enemy. His monumental tile mosaic sculptures and murals are among the city's best known works of art.

Jesse Treviño was born in Monterrey, Mexico and came to the United States as a young child. His father, Juan Treviño, immigrated from Monterrey, Mexico to the United States in the late 1920s. Juan Treviño drove trucks and repaired cars for a living. He worked as a mechanic in San Antonio when he first met his future wife Dolores in the nearby city of New Braunfels. Following their marriage in the mid 1930s, Juan and Dolores moved to Monterrey, Mexico where most of the Treviño's twelve children, including Jesse, were born.

Juan Treviño and his growing family moved back to San Antonio in 1951 and bought a house on Monterey Street in the Westside neighborhood of Prospect Hill. Dating back to the turn of the century, the Prospect Hill community had been popular with German, Italian, and Lebanese families. In the years after World War II, the neighborhood became a popular destination for middle class Latinos. Prospect Hill emerged as one of few integrated neighborhoods in the city.

Prospect Hill at this time was a quiet neighborhood with modest but elegant homes. Latinos began moving into Prospect Hill in the mid 1940s, and by the 1950s they represented nearly half of the residents in the community. Among the first Latino families to buy homes in Prospect Hill were the parents of Lionel Sosa, founder of the nation's largest Latino advertising firm; Jorge Cortez, whose family developed the nationally recognized Mi Tierra restaurant enterprise; and the family of San Antonio Mayor and U.S. Secretary of Housing and Urban Development, Henry Cisneros. Years later when Lionel Sosa headed his advertising agency, he bought several of Treviño's paintings for the agency office, including the famed Treviño portrait of the San Antonio Mexican Theater, the Alameda.

Treviño began drawing as a young child, and his interest in art and design led him to Fox Tech where his older brothers had attended. Treviño's early years were formative and important to his development as an artist.

After finishing high school in 1965, Treviño headed East to the prestigious Art Students League of New York on a scholarship. His mentors and teachers there included some of America's finest portrait painters. Additionally, he studied alongside some of the brightest young artists in the nation. Treviño's stay in New York lasted less than a year, ending when he was drafted into the United States Armed Services.

Anthony Head's biography, Spirit: The Life and Art of Jesse Treviño, best tells the Treviño story. Head described Treviño's Vietnam service and his return after being wounded from the war as the beginning of a tortured experience extending from many months to many years. Head wrote: "Under heavy fire, Treviño sustained life-threatening injuries." Treviño's injuries were devastating. He seriously injured his right arm, which was his painting arm, and his right hand. Eventually his arm was amputated below the elbow, but Head wrote, "Jesse had already started training himself to live left-handed—especially as an artist." Few major painters in history have had to overcome greater physical challenges than Jesse Treviño.

In 1997 Treviño created a huge mosaic tile mural, the "Spirit of Healing," a masterpiece constructed on nine floors of the hospital which is one of the most visible murals in Texas. The mural is a mammoth 93 by 43 foot wall that required thousands of small pieces of tile of 70 different colors. At its completion, the art piece was reputed to be the largest ceramic mural in America. The mural depicts a young boy (his son) holding a dove under the watchful protection of a guardian angel. Because of its central location near touristy Market Square and the busy I-35 corridor, this mural is viewed by millions every year.

Treviño is also known for his monumental art mosaic tribute to the Virgin of Guadalupe, “Veladora,” located at the Guadalupe Cultural Arts Center, considered the heart of the Westside. The 40-foot Veladora that Trevicreated in 2003 is one of the most popular art pieces on the Westside. In addition to being an outstanding artist, Jesse Treviño is an inspiration to individuals of all ages and backgrounds who are challenged by difficult circumstances in their quest for achievement and success.

Anthony Head noted that the Treviño story is one “of sheer determination to follow a dream. When he was at his lowest, Jesse found faith in himself to continue working. He simply was not going to be denied the life he always wanted to live.”

My more than 40 years of friendship with Treviño has allowed me to understand his purpose and to appreciate his art and inspiration from close up. He was a true fighter. He never gave up, and he got up many times after being knocked down. He fought the good fight. His life of overcoming challenges is a lesson for us all.

Treviño's artistic legacy will live forever in San Antonio. Several of his paintings of the Westside of San Antonio were selected to be included in the collections of the Smithsonian American Art Museum and San Antonio Museum of Art during the 1990s, making him among the first Latino artists to receive such prestigious recognition.

Jesse Treviño has left San Antonio and beyond a bountiful archive of artistic creations that promote positive images of the Chicano community. Treviño's determination and success in overcoming devastating life experiences establish him as an heroic model for future generations.

Mark Angelo: Still Fighting

By Roy Aguillon

If you haven't heard of Mark Angelo yet, then you're missing out on the newest rockstar sensation from San Antonio. He's not your typical musician, mind you. Mark is an ex-boxer trained at the famous San Fernando Gym, which gives him a unique perspective on life. He's been through the fights and struggles, and it shows in his music. But don't let his tough exterior fool you. Mark also studied at Alamo colleges and Saint Mary's. So, between boxing and the books, he's been able to create music that flies like a butterfly and stings like a bee with its well-thought-out messages.

Mark's National act will be touring very soon, and he plans to hop on tour with a few of your favorite national acts. He's fond of the music scene, fond of children, and fond of adults with crazy hearts. He hopes to keep them alive with his structurally radical sound. So, keep an eye out for him online. You can find him by searching for Mark Angelo McBrad. San Antonio's newest rising star is ready to take the world by storm!

I had the pleasure of chatting with Mark Angelo about his journey into the music industry. When I asked him how he got into music, he laughed and said, "It was a mistake, really. I was trying to write a song about my boxing career, and before I knew it, I had a whole album." But we're sure glad he made that mistake! Mark's music is a perfect blend of rock and roll, with a touch of his unique perspective on life. His lyrics are thoughtful, and his guitar skills are out of this world.

Mark's music is not only entertaining, but it's also thought-provoking. He tackles real-life issues in his music and offers a fresh perspective. His music is the perfect escape for anyone looking to get away from the mundane, everyday life. So, whether you're a fan of rock and roll or looking for a fresh new sound, Mark Angelo McBrad is the musician to watch.

Si aún no has oído hablar de Mark Angelo, entonces te estás perdiendo la nueva sensación del rock de San Antonio. No es tu músico típico, tenga en cuenta. Mark es un ex-boxeador entrenado en el famoso San Fernando Gym, lo que le da una perspectiva única de la vida. Ha pasado por las peleas y las luchas, y eso se refleja en su música. Pero no dejes que su exterior duro te engañe. Mark también estudió en Alamo colleges y Saint Mary's. Así que, entre el boxeo y los libros, ha sido capaz de crear música que vuela como una mariposa y pica como una abeja con sus mensajes bien pensados.

La actuación nacional de Mark estará de gira muy pronto, y planea unirse a la gira con algunos de tus actos nacionales favoritos. Le gusta la escena musical, le gusta los niños y le gusta los adultos con corazones locos. Espera mantenerlos vivos con su sonido estructuralmente radical. Así que, mantén un ojo en él en línea. Puedes encontrarlo buscando a Mark Angelo McBrad. La nueva estrella en ascenso de San Antonio está lista para conquistar el mundo. Tuve el placer de hablar con Mark Angelo sobre su camino hacia la industria musical. Cuando le pregunté cómo empezó en la música, se rió y dijo: "Fue un error, en realidad. Estaba tratando de escribir una canción sobre mi carrera de boxeo, y antes de que lo supiera, tenía todo un álbum". ¡Pero estamos seguros de que nos alegramos de que haya cometido ese error! La música de Mark es una mezcla perfecta de rock and roll, con un toque de su perspectiva única de la vida. Sus letras son reflexivas y sus habilidades con la guitarra son impresionantes.

La música de Mark no solo es entretenida, sino que también es provocadora de pensamientos. Aborda temas de la vida real en su música y ofrece una perspectiva fresca. Su música es el escape perfecto para cualquiera que busque alejarse de la vida cotidiana. Así que, ya seas fan del rock and roll o estés buscando un sonido nuevo y fresco, Mark Angelo McBrad es el músico a seguir.

2023 Honda Accord Lots Of Car For The Money

You know when you are looking for a great car that is not going to cost you a right arm to take it home and is not going to take you to the bank when it comes to repairs and overall upkeep. Honda has had a solid reputation of being a quality brand since it hit the marketplace. The Honda Accord is on its 11th year in the showrooms, and it seems to continue improving, year after year. At first glance the Accord has a look of class and sophistication. Not something you would expect to carry a Honda badge. Sleek lines, and a front fascia that catch's your attention. of the Accord lineup for this new generation has quite a selection of models. the least expensive trims, LX and EX, are powered by the 192-hp turbocharged 1.5-liter four-cylinder gas engine. The more expensive models are all powered by a new 204-hp four-cylinder hybrid system borrowed t from the CR-V. The Accord's designers have taken the eye-catching exterior styling and improved the interior design using elements like honeycomb-pattern dash trim that hides the air vents an impressive infotainment display that features some updated tech, including a new standard digital gauge display and an available 12.3-inch infotainment screen with a wireless Apple system.

Plush seating, plenty of head and leg room make taking a tour to grandma's house a pleasure. All Accords come standard with Honda Sensing. Which is a bundle of features like: automated emergency braking and lane-departure warning, adaptive cruise control and traffic sign recognition. So which Honda Accord do I want? LX $28,300. EX $30,000. Sport Hybrid $32,400. EX-L Hybrid $34,400. Sport L Hybrid $34,400. Touring Hybrid $38,400. With the cost of gas, you can count on the Honda Accord doing well in the EPA ratings. the 2023 Accord hybrid is good for 51 mpg city and 48 mpg highway. Fuel numbers for the nonhybrid Accord should be close to 30 mpg city and 38 mpg highway.

I can easily say that you will be nothing short of impressed with the Honda Accord. Beautiful exterior styling that gives it the appearance of a vehicle 10 dollars more expensive. The interior will also impress you with fine finishes to include leather, with full spacious seating and an exceptional audio system. Take a test drive and see what I am talking about. Honda continues to lead the pack of mid-range sedans that will certainly deliver a solid return on your investment.
